(MILLED UNDER NEW AND UNPARALLELED METHODS)
PRODUCES MORE BREAD PER BARREL THAN ANY OTHER IN THE MARKET.
This Flour is very sharp and granular, of high creamy color, which means great strength. Requires plenty of water, and the dough must not be made too stiff, but softer than what you have been accustomed to when using other flours. REMEMBER, THAT INCREASED STRENGTH IN FLOUR MEANS MONEY TO YOU, yielding a greater quantity of bread, thus far more than repaying you for any little extra time. DARING EXPLOIT.

The Notorious Outlaw Garza Visits Chicago and Sees the World's Fair.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—One of Bandit Caterino Garza's latest and most daring exploits, it is said, is a visit to Chicago, where, under an assumed name, he and Lieut. Gen. Ruiz Sandoval spent the early part of August and lived in no less conspicuous place than the Palmer house. While Mexican and American troops were scouring the land and ransacking their brains to discover the possible hiding place of the "revolutionists," he was enjoying the exposition to his heart's content. The authority for this statement is Rudolfo G. Canton, the railway king of Yucatan and nephew of the Mexican commissioner to the World's Fair. Felipe Canton knows Gen. Sandoval and saw him in the corridor of the Chicago hotel, and another Mexican declared he recognized the outlaw Garza. Canton says there is no mistake about the matter. Garza was pointed out to him in company with Sandoval.

AGAINST THE CZAR.

A Plot to Have Been Carried Out by a Pretended French Monk Frustrated.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—A despatch from Copenhagen to the News says: "Exciting reports are current concerning a plot against the Czar. It is stated that a French monk appeared at Friedensburg castle on Sunday, claiming that he was sent by the Pope on a secret mission to the Princess Waldemar, King Christian's daughter-in-law, who would present him to the Czar. As the Princess and the other royal personages present refused to receive him without previous inquiry, the monk disappeared. No trace of him has been found since.

CHRISTIANS AND MOORS.

Gallantry of the Spanish Forces in Presence of the Mussulmen.

Sortie After Sortie by Cavalry With Telling Effect on the Enemy.

MADRID, Oct. 3.—Later dispatches from Melilla state that the Spanish officer and troops displayed the greatest bravery. The town, which is one of the Spanish penal settlements, is commanded by the citadel which is built on a rock. After the Spanish troops and their civilian allies had been forced by overwhelming numbers to retreat into the citadel the Moors attempted to take the place by assault. They swarmed up the roadways and tried every way to scale the walls. The beleaguered men poured volley after volley at them, but as the Moors did not fight in any regular way the fire was not as destructive as it might otherwise have been. General Margallow, who was in command of the garrison, especially distinguished himself by his gallantry. Calling for volunteers, and nearly every man offered his services, General Margallow placed himself at their head and made a sortie upon the Moors. The latter retreated, keeping up a heavy fire upon the whites, until the Moors who had been operating on the other side of the citadel came to their assistance, when the defenders were driven back. These sorties were repeated throughout the day, but the Moors managed eventually to hold their position. Before the retreat was made to the citadel, troops were despatched to escort to this place of refuge the military laborers who were employed in the works at Fort Gariach. They succeeded in getting the men into the citadel, but had a hard fight to do so, being attacked on all sides. The natives were armed with Remington rifles, and fought with fanatical fury, paying no attention to the showers of bullets poured upon them, and they pursued the retreating troops up to the walls of the citadel despite the deadly fire directed at them from the fort. A small body of Spanish cavalry that was well drilled and well handled, proved of the utmost service. Toward the end of the day the Moors abandoned their gorilla mode of warfare and formed themselves into ranks, and shouting their battle cries advanced upon the citadel. When they were within a short distance of the heavy wall, the heavy main gates swung open and out galloped the cavalry, who dashed into the ranks of the advancing Moors, their keen edged sabres swinging right and left among the enemy, who broke ranks and retreated as hastily as possible. The Moors were ridden down and trampled upon by the iron-shod hoofs of the horses, and a number of them met their death in this manner. The cavalry, who were numerically weak, did not dare to pursue the enemy far from the citadel. They retired behind the walls and awaited the second coming of the Moors, who, though they had been temporarily compelled to retreat, were in no wise disheartened by the losses inflicted upon them by the horsemen. The cavalry made several charges, always with the same result. The Moors would retreat until the charge was abandoned, when they would again assume the agressive, knowing that if they would capture the citadel it would have to be by assault, as there was no chance of forcing a surrender by a siege. The place contains large magazines and the food supply of the whole convict settlement. Equally of importance is the water supply, which is procured from large rock cisterns. With characteristic bravery, they displayed no hesitation whatever when their leaders called upon them to face the deadly volleys poured into them from behind the walls of the citadel. They displayed an absolute disregard for danger that compelled the admiration of the men fighting against them.

The news of the battle, rapidly spread by runners, reached the villages back from the coast. The male inhabitants sprang to arms and hastened to the aid of the tribesmen. The fury of the Moors was added to when the Spanish artillerymen wrecked the mosque, which was sacred in the eyes of the natives. This mosque was not in Melilla proper, but in an adjacent village. The houses destroyed were also outside Melilla. The Spanish forces are hastening with all possible speed, and preparations are making for the relief of the beleagured citadel troops; while cannon and ammunition are being despatched from Seville and Malaga. A gunboat with orders to bombard the strongholds of the Riffians, as these Moors are known, is already on the way to the coast. These mountaineers are practically pirates, most of them knowing the sea as they do the mountains in which they live. It was only a short time ago that the Spanish gunboat Isla de Luzon was sent to effect the rescue of the crew of a Spanish trading vessel, which had fallen into the hands of the Riff pirates. The mission of the gunboat was unsuccessful, and the fate of the captives has never been known. They were probably sold into slavery in the interior. Among the natives was a Spanishwoman. The Government has ordered that the troops garrisoned in Cadiz, Malaga, Almeria and Seville be made ready for immediate service. The armored broadside ship Numancio—one of the largest vessels in the Spanish navy—is at Almeria with steam up, waiting to embark troops for Melilla.

A special steamer left Malaga this afternoon for Melilla. She has an board a battery of artillery.

Advices from Melilla this evening are that the Moors requested a truce this morning. The request was granted, and both sides buried their dead this afternoon. The Moors have sued for peace. The Moorish Government have been cowed completely by Spain's preparations for war. It has promised to make any reparation, and has assured Spain of its most earnest efforts to repress the savagery of the hostile tribes.

MINISTERIAL SUCCESS.

Members of the Government Successfully Discuss Public Questions at Kamloops.

KAMLOOPS, Oct. 3.—(Special)—A political meeting was held at Kamloops, last night, presided over by Mr. Mara, M. P. Speeches were made by Hon. Messrs. Davie and Vernon, who exhaustively defined the Government policy. Messrs. Semlin and Kitchen spoke in opposition. The latter created a bad impression by his personal attacks, claiming the probability of the Parliament buildings at Victoria being destroyed by the shell of an invading army. To this Mr. Davie replied that, in such case, and even if the foe passed Esquimalt, the remainder of the Province would be in a pitiable plight. After passing a unanimous vote of thanks to the Premier and Mr. Vernon, a similar vote was accorded the other speakers, and, with a vote of thanks to the chairman, one of the largest public meetings ever held in the Interior was brought to a close at about 1:30 a.m.

Military Movements.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 3.—In March next, the Eighth (King's) regiment will be removed from Halifax to Victoria to take charge of the barracks recently erected there by the Imperial authorities. Two of the King's regiment who have arrived from Victoria, state that the barracks there is superior to that at Halifax. Hereafter troops will not come from Bermuda to Halifax, but from Great Britain direct to this garrison. The Berkshire regiment, now at Bermuda, will, in the spring, return to England, having completed the 12 years' service. Two regiments will arrive here in March and will, it is supposed, be the 23rd Welsh Fusiliers and the 26th Cameronians. Instead of one regiment being stationed at Halifax there will be two hereafter, and Halifax will be made the first change station. A regiment will, it is reported, be permanently stationed at Victoria.

At Point Duchesne, tremendous seas swept the railway wharf and two barques broke loose, one running ashore on the sand bar but afterwards floated. Reports of the damage, it is believed, are only beginning to be received as the wires have been prostrated in all directions.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—The October term of the Supreme Court opened to-day. Judge King took his seat. The Chief Justice said that owing to the absence of Judge Gwynne, and the fact of Judge Sedgwick being interested in preparing the Manitoba school case, that case could not be proceeded with to-day. RIO'S BOMBARDMENT.

President Peixoto Determined to Resist to the Last—His Government Unpopular.

Considerable Losses of Life and Property—Provisions at Famine Prices in the City.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A Herald's Montevideo special, speaking of the resumption of the bombardment of Rio, says the censorship of the Brazilian government is such that it is impossible to get any telegraphic news out. Letters have been received, however, giving a story of the events up to September 22. He says that while the Government has made every effort to conceal the facts, it is known that twenty persons were killed during the bombardment, the greatest loss of life being in Nictheroy. Aside from this there was tremendous damage to property. Not much damage was done by the shots fired when the ships went to Santos, and the rebels soon proceeded to Santa Catarino to establish Mello's headquarters at that point. If they succeed in effecting a stronghold there a long civil war will ensue. Peixoto's government is becoming more unpopular and retains power through military force. His army is a motley force of 5,000 men, and frequent outrages on the part of the soldiers are reported. Many families are abandoning their homes to escape the villainies of the military marauders. There is a great scarcity of provisions and all kinds of supplies in Rio, and much suffering prevails. This destitution is adding to the dissatisfaction, and a general uprising is looked for. Mello is hoping for this, and is also looking for reinforcements from the South. A launch from an Italian warship was fired on by Brazilians and a sailor killed. Peixoto paid an indemnity of 100,000 milreis. An American boat was also shot at, and a complaint has been lodged. President Peixoto is determined to resist until the last.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—A private cablegram announces that the rebel fleet at Rio bombarded that city all day yesterday, resulting in further damage to the city and great loss of life. Details as to the amount of damage and the number killed ashore and afloat are not given, but it is presumed, from the fact that firing was kept up all day, that the loss must have been considerable on both sides. The cablegram adds that famine prices for provisions prevail at Rio. On the other hand, the Brazilian minister here furnishes the following dispatch under the date of yesterday, giving the government side: "The insurgent squadron is still in the bay, and much weaker by desertions. Daily some of the vessels are damaged by shore artillery. The forts vigorously answered yesterday's bombarding. The two steamers which escaped have been repulsed at Santos. At Santa Catarina they have failed to land. The troops are united and loyal to the government, and public opinion is opposed to the insurgents."

Threshing is nearly finished at the Delta, and the yield has been generally better than had been expected.

DUNCAN.

DUNCAN, Oct. 3.—Large batches of Indians arrived here yesterday and on Saturday last from the hop-picking in Washington.

Indian Agent Lomas had a field day yesterday, Monday, at the court house, Duncan. The following cases were heard: Wullert, a Bonsall creek Indian, and Peter Ethe-e-air, of the Hell-elt tribe, Chemainus, were fined $5 and costs each for being drunk. Jimmy Que-serk, another Hell-elt Indian, paid in $25 and costs for being in possession of whisky; Amy Ce-el-kartza goes up to Nanaimo jail for three months for being drunk and attempting the rescue of a prisoner; and Sherman Lewis, for supplying the liquor, was committed to Nanaimo jail, six months' hard labor.

The British farm delegates, who came up the line by special train yesterday, stopped a few hours at Duncan and drove round part of the settlement viewing the farms.

C. Bazett journeyed to Vancouver on Saturday last. J. C. Prevost, D. McIntyre and Dr. Butts went down to Victoria on Monday morning's train. E. M. Skinner, C.E., has returned from a survey of the north-west part of Vancouver Island.

A public meeting was held in the Agricultural hall on Saturday to promote the formation of a mutual insurance society among sheep owners. Capt. Barkley, as the convener of the meeting, introduced the subject, stating his views as to the objects to be aimed at, and the advantages which might be expected to accrue from the formation of such a society. The Reeve, W. Drinkwater, occupied the chair. It was agreed that the society be called "The Cowichan Mutual Sheep Insurance Society," and that the objects of the society shall be (1) To indemnity members for loss of sheep by wild animals and dogs; (2) To encourage the breeding and training of panther dogs by means of annual prizes; (3) To endeavor to influence Parliament to give more liberal encouragement to the destruction of beasts of prey. The meeting was also of the opinion that such a society might, in a variety of ways, greatly advance the interests of the sheep industry. The following gentlemen were nominated as a committee to bring the objects of the society before the farmers of the district, and to ascertain the number of sheep kept: Captain Barkley, Messrs. Stewart, W. Drinkwater, T. A. Wood, W. Bazett, W. Ford, R. Bazett, G. T. Corfield, and Major Mutter. The committee will meet on Saturday, Oct 21, to report the result of their canvass, and to draw up a definite scheme to be submitted to a general meeting to be held Saturday, Oct 28, in the Agricultural hall, Duncan. Though the proposed name of the society is a local one, it is by no means intended to confine it to this district; the meeting was strongly of the opinion that the more widely its operations were extended the greater would be its influence for good on the sheep industry of the Province. Any owner of sheep who wishes to join the society and who cannot attend the meeting or see a member of the committee, may send his name and address to the Honorary Secretary, pro tem., Jas. Norcross, Somenos.

McCARTHY'S RESPONSE.

The Irish Leader Declares that the Final Triumph Cannot Be Long Delayed,

BOSTON, Oct. 2 —The following letter has been received by the Hon. Thomas B. Gorgan, chairman, and Daniel P. Sullivan, secretary of the state committee of the Irish National Federation of Massachusetts, in response to the congratulatory letter recently forwarded to the chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party:

SEPTEMBER 16, 1893.

DEAR SIRS,—I thank you most cordially, on behalf of my party and myself, for your kind and cheering letter of congratulation on the passing of the Home Rule bill through the House of Commons. The final triumph of the bill will, I believe with you, be but a question of short duration. Time is with us; the democracy of Great Britain is with us; the greatest English statesman of the century, Mr. Gladstone, is with us, and will, I trust, long be spared to work for us and with us. Under such conditions what have we to fear? Very truly yours,

JUSTIN MCCARTHY.

SEVERE DIARRHŒA CURED.

GENTLEMEN,—I was troubled with chronic diarrhœa for over three years, and received no benefit from all the medicine I tried. I was unable to work from two to four days every week. Hearing of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, I began to use it. Am now all right.

FRANCE AND SIAM.

Opinion of the London Times on the Convention Which Has Been Entered Into.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Times correspondent at Bangkok says: The draft of the treaty is comparatively satisfactory and embodies the ultimatum, but the convention attached is entirely unsatisfactory. The latter contains terms exceeding and contrary to the ultimatum, stipulating that France shall occupy Chantabon after the original stipulations shall have been carried out and until the left bank of the Mekong and the reserved zone shall have been completely evacuated and pacified. Unless France faithfully fulfils the pledges given by M. De Villers, Chantabon will long remain in the possession of the French. The process verbal, accompanying the convention, reiterates that France will evacuate Chantabon as early as possible under the agreement. Siam has agreed to all, largely owing to the king's resolve not to sacrifice the Danish officers, which demand, in view of his compliance otherwise, M. De Villers abandoned shortly before Siam's decision was given.

MARINE MOVEMENTS.

Steamer "Victoria" Off For Japan—A Bid For the Trade of the Orient.

The Lost "Blair Athole"—Survey of the Storm-Tossed Bark "Formosa."

The steamship Victoria's freight capacity was nearly all taken up when she arrived here from the Sound, in command of Capt. Panton, R.N.R., yesterday morning; in fact, her cargo was one of the most profitable ever taken to the Orient by any N. P. R. vessel. In all she carried over 2,100 tons of cargo, principally flour, but including 200 tons of vacuum oil and 100 tons of condensed milk. These latter consignments are sample shipments, made by some American companies to test the market in the Orient for such productions. This is the first of that kind of oil ever taken to China, and it is expected to find a good market, as there is an immense amount of oil used there for machinery, for which purposes the vacuum is admirably adapted. As passengers the Victoria has 72 Chinese and Japanese from the Sound, and about 40 from this port. Of these only one Chinaman is being deported. In the saloon are Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Thompson, S. Thompson, Mrs. Germaine and three children, Mr. Muirhead, Mr. Chesney and a missionary, who is going back to China to resume his work which he left last winter. The Victoria proceeded on her voyage at daylight this morning.

THE FORMOSA'S DAMAGES.

After towing the bark Formosa around from Esquimalt to R. P. Rithet & Co.'s inner wharf yesterday, the tug Lorne towed the bark Routenbeck to sea. The Routenbeck is heavily laden with salmon and is expected to make a quick passage to England. The Formosa will commence discharging cargo to-day. A survey was held on board her by Captain W. R Clarke and others yesterday afternoon, to ascertain as well as possible the amount of damage she sustained on her voyage. The examination, however, did not reveal as much injury as was expected, but the vessel will first have to be lightened before a thorough investigation can be made.

MISSING VESSELS.

The British ships Blair Athole and Woolton are posted as missing and uninsurable. The Blair Athole is out 214 days from Java to Vancouver with a cargo of sugar. She is a Glasgow built vessel, constructed in 1874, 1,697 tons register, and was well equipped. Captain Lister was in command, but all hopes as to his and his crews' safety are now abandoned as it is generally believed that his vessel encountered some of those fearful seas which are so prevalent in the waters near Java. The Woolton is out 109 days from Newcastle, N. S. W., to Valparaiso, with coal. She is a fine 2100-ton vessel, built at Southampton, England, in 1885.

A PECULIAR EXPERIENCE.

A strange story comes from the British ship Garsdale, which sailed for Falmouth, England, from Tacoma on the 23rd of April. On August 5 a swarm of locusts dropped on the decks of the ship, covering her rigging and deck planks with the insects. Land birds and butterflies also lit upon the ship, and her crew thought that the end had come. The nearest land was San Antonio Island, distant seventy-five miles, and the Garsdale's officers cannot account for the phenomenon.

KASLO

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Growth of KASLO this year has been unprecedented in the history of British Columbia.

In one year the Forest Growth has been replaced by streets lined with substantial buildings.

The population has increased in one year from 300 to 3,000, and is being added to at the rate of nearly 100 per day.

The immediate construction of the KASLO - SLOCAN RAILROAD will cause development that will increase the population this year to twice 3,000.

It is the supply point and outlet for the now famous mines of the Slocan, ore from which has been shipped via Kaslo all winter.

LACROSSE IN MONTREAL.

How the Capitals Literally Fought Their Way to the Championship.

Four Men Disabled and One Permanently Injured—The Shamrocks' Unruly Followers.

Twelve years ago the lacrosse people of Ottawa began to have aspirations to secure lacrosse championship honors for their city, and their persistent struggle against outside obstacles—in the way of a jealously hostile league, as well as of older and better teams—and no less troublesome dissensions at home, has at last been rewarded by securing the coveted distinction, after a most brilliant season, in which the Capital team has not lost a single match.

"Money talks" in championship lacrosse affairs in the east, and on the day of the great meeting between the Capitals and the Shamrocks it proclaimed by 10 to 7 that the Ottawa city team would be the victors. By all accounts the 10's were in the majority, and Ottawa having responded gamely to all offers, the large amount at stake intensified the excitement of the immense crowd which occupied every foot of standing or sitting room in the lacrosse grounds at Montreal. The attendance is said to have been the largest ever gathered at a lacrosse match, and thousands forced their way in without paying, simply because it was impossible to get access to the ticket sellers. The Capitals, it seems, took no chances of accidents to their team in Montreal prior to the match. They were sent down to Lachute, a quiet stopping place half way between Ottawa and Montreal, and there spent Friday night, and on Saturday went on to Montreal in time to get in shortly before play was to commence.

The match which ended so riotously appears to have commenced in the usual orderly fashion, but the Shamrocks were then showing up to better advantage than were the visitors, and it was a clever bit of headwork which gave the Capitals the first game in 3½ minutes. The play had been the fastest seen this season. "The pace was terrific," says the Gazette. The second game was orderly and uneventful, and the Shamrock goal keeper was away from his place when after 1½ minutes' play the visitors scored. The success of the Capitals excited the spectators, and also the Shamrock players, and early in the third game disorders commenced, in the field and about the stands. The Shamrocks had strengthened their defence by moving Dwyer to point. The first foul of any account was when O'Meara's stick caught Crown, the Capital goalkeeper, on the side of the head. Crown seemed dazed, and held up his hand to have time called, but the referee did not look that way. After a while Crown, being still weak, was hard checked on the cinder path, and fell on his face helpless. Devine helped him to the dressing room, but before reaching there Devine also needed the doctor's assistance, one of the bystanders having struck him a smashing blow in the face.

This assault was considered as an open declaration of war, and there was no pretence at friendship afterwards. The referee saw nothing wrong, though fouls against the Capitals were deliberately made, and the visiting team seemed to lose heart at the idea of having no remedy but such retaliation as they felt sure would be promptly punished by ruling off, which it was evidently the Shamrocks' intention to provoke. After a well sustained onslaught the Shamrocks scored, the playing time being 42½ minutes, though the game had lasted more than an hour. George Carson of the Capitals being taken sick, went off, with Burke of the Shamrocks, and the fourth game started with eleven on each side. The Shamrocks scored in 3½ minutes, but in that short time Lacey of the Capitals had been severely hurt. Carleton of the Capitals had been disabled and went off, accompanied by O'Brien from the other side, thus leaving teams of ten for the fifth game.

At the very outset Lacy was about to score, when Duggan sprang at him with a check so hard that Lacey collapsed where he stood, and the doctors fear he has been so injured internally as to prevent his ever playing again. O'Meara was put off with him leaving nine a side. Soon Dwyer and Ketchum were ruled off for fouling, thus reducing the players to eight on each side. Next Tucker and Crown, the Capital's goal keeper, engaged in single combat, and went down side by side. Tucker dropped his stick and punched the head of Crown, who is only a little fellow. The referee, who missed nearly all the excitement of the match, did not see this either. Murphy scored for the Capitals in 10½ minutes.

When the sixth game commenced, it was too dark to see the ball, and the crowd took advantage of the darkness to rush upon the field from all quarters, closing in until the Capitals were virtually crowded off the field,—after a free fight just how started nobody knows. The Capitals retreated for safety to their dressing room, when two minutes playing time yet remained. They have since, as reported, been awarded the match, on the ground that the Shamrocks were to blame for the disorder which prevented a finish. The Gazette makes this comment:

"To sum up the match very few words suffice. It seems a pity that such a prominent club as the Shamrocks should labor under the difficulty of having among their followers men who will stop at nothing when their temper runs away with any good judgment they might have away from the lacrosse field. The treatment the Capitals were subjected to was simply and absolutely disgraceful. While the club cannot be blamed for the conduct of outsiders, there might be a possibility of taking some protective measures for the benefit of visiting players, instead of having them subjected to the cowardly attacks of men whose ideas of fair play are not put down in the ethics of civilization. Montreal hitherto has had the reputation of giving the stranger fair play. On Saturday such was not the case. The Shamrocks were the principal offenders in the fouling tactics, although the visitors were not entirely blameless, but even the fouling of the players was no excuse for the wind-up."

DR. JOWETT DEAD.

An Eminent Classical Scholar and Theologian—Once on Trial for Heresy, but Acquitted.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Rev. Benjamin Jowett, M.A. L.L.D., late vice chancellor of the University of Edinburgh, died yesterday. He was born at Camberwell, England, in 1817, and was educated at Oxford. He became a tutor at that university in 1842, and the same year was ordained. He afterward served as an examiner of classical schools and on the commission for examinations for the Indian civil service. He was appointed Regius professor of Greek in 1855, on the recommendation of Lord Palmerston, and master of Balliol college in 1870. He was vice chancellor of the University of Edinburgh from 1882 to 1886. In 1855 he published "Commentary on the Epistles of St. Paul to the Thessalonians, Galatians and Roman." In 1857 he published an article on "The Inspiration of Scripture," which not only called forth severe criticism on account of its rationism, but was the ground of an accusation of heresy, for which he was tried and acquitted in the chancellor's court of the University of Oxford. His most important work is a translation of the "Dialogues of Plato." More recently he published translations of Thucydides and Aristotle. His style is admirably clear and his scholarship unimpeachable.

SPANIARDS AND MOORS.

Critical Position of the European Garrison of a Town in Morocco.

MADRID, Oct. 3.—Further trouble has broken out between the Moors and the Spanish garrison at Melilla, a town on the northern coast of Morocco. The Spanish authorities recently decided to add to the strength of the fortifications at Melilla, the state of the country and the acts of the natives, in their opinion, warranting such a course. The work of constructing additional fortifications was begun and pushed forward as rapidly as possible. This incensed the Moors and Monday morning a force of more than 6,000 natives made an attack upon the Spanish garrison, that numbered all told not more than 400 souls. The Spanish troops fought throughout the day without relief being sent to them. They had no food, but this was a matter of small consequence to them, as they knew that death or slavery awaited them should they fall into the hands of their enemies. The Moors were constantly gaining fresh accessions to their ranks, and the outlook was becoming serious for the Spaniards, when the white residents of the town, without regard to nationality, offered to assist them. They were greatly outnumbered by Moors, however, and were finally compelled to retire into the fortress, located on the outskirts of the town, where they are still besieged. During the battle eighteen Spaniards were killed and thirty-five wounded.

WHAT WILL HE DO WITH IT?

TO THE EDITOR:—Such, sir, was one of the titles of a work from the pen of the late Lytton Bulwer. Doubtless it is the question, in its most serious and anxious form, that now presents itself to the mind of Premier Gladstone. That former familiar expression so often used that it was "the Irish question that blocks the way," has now given way to make room for that which naturally might have been expected: "That it is the House of Lords that blocks the way." In his recent address at Midlothian he lays the flattering unction to his soul, that because the House of Lords is in the past, in many instances gave way, and notably in that great contest of the Reform Bill, its members will eventually accede to this Home Rule Bill. But the majority in the House of Lords against that Reform Bill was, so to speak, but a mere handful of peers, and so limited in number, that it was suggested to the King (Wm. IV.) to create a batch of peers to remedy the trouble; but at the present time with 400 to 41 such suggestion would be idle talk. The position of Gladstone at this crisis, somewhat resembles an incident that once took place in the back woods of America. A man there engaged chopping wood, was suddenly confronted with a tremendous bear. "Oh, Lord!" said the terrified man, "here is going to be one of the horridest fights you ever did see; for Heaven's sake help me, but if you can't, for God's sake don't help the bear." Now Gladstone knows very well he is about to be engaged in a terrible conflict, but he seems to have none of those doubts that agitated the mind of this backwoodsman, for in the conclusion of his speech at Midlothian, he says: "It is our belief that we shall find, with the help of the Almighty, the means to reach the goal." In the meantime the battle still rages, and we are anxiously awaiting the result of the conflict. W. K. B.

CHINA CREEK GOLD FIELDS.

TO THE EDITOR:—There are two clerical errors in the report of your interview with me yesterday regarding the China Creek gold fields, which I shall be obliged if you will correct by publishing this letter, as the points are important. It should read:

"The country rock is metamorphic, and extends for a width of about six miles; it is overlaid by trap and has successively limestone and granite on the flank."

Again: "The veins of ore vary from thirteen feet to four feet in width, with stringers of smaller size."

I was able to trace the limestone and granite on the flank to the southeast, while to the northwest, at Alberni, we find the sandstone and conglomerate of the cretaceous system. The greater part of Mount Arrowsmith, to the north of the China Creek mines, is trap rock. The limited time at my disposal necessarily prevented my defining the contact lines of the different formations with any accuracy, but there is no question about the foregoing facts.

JAMES BAKER,
Minister of Mines.

A Kingston Orangeman.

KINGSTON, Sept. 29.—Mr. James Blair, of Napanee, whose case has been creating so much interest in that locality, is well-known in the Limestone city. He was a resident of Kingston for fourteen years, and it was while he was engaged as cutter for Mr. Livingstone of this place, that he contracted Bright's disease of the kidneys. His Orange friends in Kingston are delighted to know that he is cured of this terrible disease, by using Dodd's Kidney Pills. Many of them who have been similarly troubled with backache, rheumatism, and kindred complaints, have started using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and several marvellous cures are already reported. Mr. Blair joined the Orange order in 1854 and is the oldest Orangeman in Napanee. He has been a delegate to the Orange grand lodge, and has held several important offices in the order. His friends considered his case as incurable, and are of course amazed at his wonderful recovery.

Double Harness, Chain Harness, Bull Chains, Saddles (ladies' and gent's), Bridles, etc.

Blacksmiths' Bellows, Anvil and Tools and Carpenters' Tools.

9-Room House (shingle roofed; Stable for 10 horses, with hay loft above; Stone Roothouse, Store Buildings, Dairy, Cow Sheds, etc., etc.

4 Miles (about) Standing Fences, in good order; Corralls, 10 miles barbed wire and staples; about 2,500 Posts on the ground, ready for use, etc., etc.

Small Lot Household Furniture, Stove and Pipes, Cooking Utensils, Crockery, etc., etc.

This Property is within easy distance of many of the most important Gold, Silver and Coal Mines in West Kootenay. The population of this district will increase this year by at least 10,000; the area of farm land is very limited, and from this it may be fairly asserted that beef and all classes of farm produce will find a ready and lucrative market. The soil is the best bottom land, and the locality is one of the few places in the Province where so large a piece of good farm land can be found in one block. A river runs through the property, and rainbow trout are plentiful and afford capital sport. Deer abound in considerable numbers. Bear, Wolf, Coyote and other large game are to be found in the hills. There are two creeks recorded and belonging to the estate, one flows all the year round. Limestone and brick clay are to be had in the valley.

The Cattle are well bred; a much larger herd could be farmed with the place. The bunch grass on the hills in the vicinity covers many thousands of acres, and is available to the few land owners in the valleys. All buildings and fences about the farm are in good order, and farming operations can be gone on with at once; about 180 acres of ploughing have been, so far, provided for this year's work.

The Climate is not severe, the land being about 1,100 feet above sea level; the station was for many years the winter quarters of the H. B. Co.'s pack trains. There is a weekly express in and out. Goods and supplies at wholesale can be procured on order and delivered in 48 hours.

The Title is by grant from the Crown, and is free of all encumbrances. Immediate possession can be given.

Important Railway works are now in progress within moderate distance, and two railway lines have been run to pass close to or through the estate, which can be reached in the spring in three days' journey from Victoria.

The South West Kootenay District, British Columbia, judging from the actual ore products of the mines this winter, is destined in the next year or two to become one of the richest and most important mineral centres in the world. Statistics show, that although the district is in its primary stage, the mines have developed ore veins rich enough to warrant the investment of over a million dollars. When these mines come to be worked systematically, there will be an

Influx of Population, which will require beef and farm produce in large quantities. The limited quantity of really good farm land in the district to supply these requirements makes this

A BONANZA!

To any person or corporation having the capital and knowledge necessary to develop and work this estate. A store, hotel and blacksmith shop could be run in connection with the farm.

SOME ENQUIRIES.

Why is it that Cook street is allowed to remain in a disgraceful and even a dangerous condition? Why has the contractor for the surface drain been permitted to keep the street obstructed by piles of clay that are all the time sending out unpleasant and unwholesome exhalations? Access to dwellings is made difficult by these unsightly and foul-smelling mounds. The roadway, too, has been made so rough as to be almost impassable. While the weather was dry it was covered by a thick coating of dust, which almost stifled those who had the hardihood to drive along the street, and which filled the air with a blinding cloud whenever there was a breeze. The Corporation saw the contractor transforming the street into a nuisance without uttering even a word of remonstrance. It did not as much as send the watering cart to lay the dust which the contractor had been allowed to make.

Now that the rain has come, the mud will be even a greater plague than was the dust. The clay from the drain, is when wet, peculiarly slippery and adhesive. It sticks to everything that touches it. It is spread all over the surface of the street and makes the sidewalks as unpleasant to walk upon as is the street.

When the sewer was being dug through that street it was not allowed to be in the condition it has been in ever since operations have been commenced on the surface drain. Mr. McBean, the contractor, was obliged to keep the street clear. Earth was carted away as soon as it was taken out of the trench and the roadway was put in as good order as the contractor found it, at the earliest possible moment. This the contractor of the surface drain should have been compelled to do. But he has gone on without any supervision that has been apparent. No regard has been paid to the comfort, the convenience, or even the health of those who live on the street or the general public. The contractor has been supreme. His interest, it is evident, has been alone consulted. Is this because he has had friends in the Council? It would be lucky for the residents on Cook street if the surface drain contractor had as many enemies at the Council Board as had Mr. McBean, the sewer contractor.

POLITICAL MEETINGS.

The Times seems to think that every political meeting should be a kind of political prize fight, in which the champions of each side are required to maul each other for the amusement of the public. It surely must, by this time, see that this primitive idea of the political meeting has, in civilized communities, become obsolete. Our contemporary must be most obtuse and altogether unteachable, if it does not learn a lesson in the amenities of political warfare from what has been lately going on, and what is now going on in Eastern Canada. When Mr. Laurier was making a tour of Ontario in order to tell the inhabitants of that province about the last changes that had been made in the Liberal programme, he was not met on every platform by Sir John Thompson. Neither did Mr. Meredith follow him from place to place in order to counteract the teachings of the silver-tongued leader of the Liberals. The Conservative leaders, both Dominion and Provincial, had the good sense and the good manners to stay at home and allow Mr Laurier and his friends to address those who gathered to hear them undisturbed. They did not try to make a bear garden of any of his meetings.

Now that Sir John Thompson is going over the same ground the leading Liberals do not attempt to disturb his meetings. They know that it would be neither courteous nor politic to do so. The Liberals that attend the Conservative meetings listen respectfully to what the Conservative ministers have to say, and in all other respects behave themselves as civilized men.

When Mr. Gladstone went to Midlothian the other day to give his constituents and the whole nation an inkling of what his policy with respect to the House of Lords was to be, Lord Salisbury did not dream of meeting him there to try conclusions with him. If any one had had the hardihood to propose such a mode of procedure to the Tory leader, he would be regarded as a lunatic. Mr. Balfour, Mr. Chamberlain, and other leading Unionists would not consider it as consistent with their character as gentlemen to interfere in any way with Mr. Gladstone's meeting. And we are much afraid that if any over-zealous Conservative should believe that he had a mission to oppose Mr. Gladstone at the Midlothian gathering the intelligent Liberal Scotchmen, zealous as they are in the cause of freedom, would have shown him what they thought of his conduct in an emphatic and a not very mild way. The Times is very foolish in contending for what it knows to be wrong, in order to keep Messrs. Brown and Kitchen in countenance. Neither of these two worthies would go a single inch out of his way to defend the Times if it should take what they knew to be the improper course.

INNOCENT SUFFERERS.

It is pitiful to read of the sufferings of the families of the English strikers. It is heart breaking to read of little children dying of starvation. It seems to us that there is nothing to be gained by any strike worth the suffering which it causes the innocent and the unoffending. We are not surprised to find that the enlightened leaders of labor now disapprove of strikes. A strike seldom gains what is contended for, and when it is successful it is more than questionable whether what is gained is worth the price paid for it. It is now considered that everything that can be gained may be obtained by amicable means, and means that will not cause such a lamentable waste of money and such a dreadful amount of sorrow and suffering.

It is folly to hold that the blame of these contests is all on one side. Business in these days has been aptly likened to warfare. Competition between both nations and individuals is so keen that prices are cut down to the lowest possible point. What it takes to produce any commodity is calculated with mathematical exactitude. An apparently small percentage in the cost of production makes all the difference between doing business at a profit and doing it at a loss. It can now be told to a fraction, in most businesses, how much can be paid for labor without incurring loss that must, if continued, be ruinous. When this figure is reached a strike must necessarily be futile, for no man will continue to keep his money in a business that affords him no prospect of profit. That it can be placed at that figure, if proper means are used, is evident to thinking men among both the workmen and the employers. The prosperity of the industries almost wholly depends upon there being a good understanding between workmen and employers, between capital and labor. That such an understanding can be arrived at without having recourse to such a horrible war as that which is now being waged in England—a war in which innocent non-combatants are the greatest sufferers—is surely possible.

THE UNITY OF THE EMPIRE.

When Sir Charles Tupper was in Winnipeg he, at a dinner given in his honor by the Manitoba Club, delivered an address on the Unity of the Empire. The High Commissioner believes in the very closest union possible between the different parts of the British Empire, but he differs from many of the Imperial Federationists in some rather important respects. They try to show that the Colonies are a burden to the Imperial Government, that it contracts large expenses on their account, and that they are therefore bound in honor to contribute a proportionate share towards the defence of the Empire. If this position is a tenable one, it follows that as long as the colonies neglect or refuse to bear their fair share of the expenditure for defence, the position they occupy with relation to the mother country can hardly be said to be an honorable one. Sir Charles Tupper contends that those who represent Canada as occupying this position are not placing the relation between her and Great Britain in its true light:

The question of Imperial Federation, he says, has been presented by them as a question in which the masses of the people of England are interested, because, as matters now stand, the taxpayers of the United Kingdom are burthened by the colonial connection, and they are told at the same time that the people in the colonies are not willing to continue to maintain the connection that exists between the colonies and the crown, but that if they will give the colonies certain advantages by a change of constitution, they will no doubt relieve them from a large portion of the burthens that now rest upon them in maintaining the army and navy of England. Now, I challenge the accuracy of these statements. I see that in this country you have been told by advocates of Imperial Federation that we occupy a humiliating position. You have been told that 5,000,000 Canadians have no voice in the Imperial Parliament; you have been told that they have no voice in the foreign concerns, in the foreign policy of the great empire to which they belong; that it is a humiliating position, and that the time has come when Canadians and colonists in every part of the world are determined that they should become citizens of the empire; that they should have the rights and privileges that are enjoyed in the heart of the empire. I can only say to you, gentlemen, that I differ toto cœlo with all these statements. I say that the unity of this great empire must be rested upon a different basis altogether. I deny that we are a burthen to the empire. I say that if to-morrow Canada was dissevered from the crown of England; if to-morrow Canada became a portion of that great republic which lies to the south of us, England could not reduce her army by a man nor her navy by a ship. She would want more soldiers and sailors and ironclads than she has to-day in order to maintain her prestige. I say if this great continent was closed, as closed it would be to the ships of England under the circumstances I have named; if they had no harbor in which to run or a place where they can obtain a ton of coal or a spar, instead of England being strengthened she would be enormously weakened. Her power in the Pacific, her possessions in India and China would be imperilled, and her prestige as a nation entirely changed. Instead of relieving her from any charge for diplomatic services or her army or her navy, it would impose greater burthens upon the taxpayers of Great Britain than at present. I deny that we are a burthen. There is not a pound of British money spent in the Dominion of Canada from end to end for any Canadian purpose. It is true a small force is maintained at Halifax for strategic purposes, and for a like purpose there is to be a small expenditure in British Columbia in conjunction with Canada. You have proved by the valor of your own right arm you are able to take care of all the local interests of Canada, without calling upon Her Majesty's Government for any assistance or support whatever. (Applause.) I deny that we are in a humiliating position. I say that the services of statesmen who are charged with the administration, with the development, with the progress and prosperity of Canada—or of a continent with a territory and resources capable of supporting a population of 100,000,000 of people—compare favorably with the most eminent services that are rendered to the crown by any statesmen within any portion of the empire.

There is food for thought in this passage. Canada is, no doubt, as far as her domestic affairs are concerned, occupying a position perfectly free of any pecuniary dependence on Great Britain. She manages her own affairs as far as they relate to her own territory at her own expense. But it is different with respect to her relations with foreign nations. It is not to be supposed for a moment that if Canada had not the protecting arm of Great Britain to rely upon, she would be in as good a position to assert her rights and to vindicate her claims as she is now. Being a young and a comparatively weak country, the strength of her claims and the righteousness of her cause would receive but slight consideration from any great military power or any strong neighbor with whom she might have a dispute.

Without doubt the prestige of Great Britain is of immense advantage to Canada, even from a pecuniary point of view. She derives great benefits from Great Britain's strength. This being admitted, is she not under a moral obligation to contribute towards that strength in some other than the passive way indicated by Sir Charles Tupper? Admitting that Great Britain would have to maintain her present naval and military establishments if she did not possess a single colony, does that fact lessen the obligations of those communities who benefit by those establishments contributing towards their maintenance? If Canada were independent she would have to make some provision for her own defence on both land and sea; if she were annexed to the United States she would be compelled to contribute her proportionate share towards the defence of the Republic; why, then, merely because she is a dependency of Great Britain long past the stage of helpless infancy, should she regard herself as being exempt from the obligation to pay a cent towards the defence of the Empire?

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE CITY.

THE case of Sing Lee, charged with housebreaking, was heard in the City Police court yesterday morning, the accused being committed for trial.

THERE will doubtless be a large congregation of sealing men at the First Presbyterian church next Sunday evening, the pastor, Rev. Dr. Campbell, having announced his intention of conducting a service of thanksgiving for the safe return of the fleet.

TO-DAY, in the Speedy Trials court, John Francis, a member of the crew of the bark Rathdown, will be on trial for assault upon the sailor Joseph Wilson, now in custody on the charge of murdering his fellow seaman Jones. In the Special Assize court to-morrow Wilson will be put upon his trial for the murder.

IN St. John's church, last evening, a large congregation enjoyed the Harvest festival services, the order of which was published yesterday. The decorations were much admired and the music and sermon, the latter by the Bishop of the diocese, very appropriate and much appreciated.

THERE was no further information from Carmanah Point yesterday in connection with the supposed drowning of E D Macnaughton, of this city, and Ted Daykin, son of the light keeper. Mr. Daykin has abandoned the search, being forced to the sad conclusion that his son with his companion have been drowned, and the bodies carried out to sea.

THE juvenile branch of Foresters entertained about fifty visitors from the adult courts Vancouver, Northern Light and Robin Hood, at a social and entertainment in the Foresters hall last evening. A programme of a musical and literary character was rendered during the evening, and to make the social still more complete refreshments were provided.

MR. E. CROW BAKER, in his official capacity as managing director of the Victoria Electric Illuminating Co., was yesterday fined $10 by the Police Magistrate for a violation of the Fire Prevention By-law. The prosecution was a sequel to the recent blaze at the Langley street electric light station, which was due to unusual circumstances, something having gone wrong with the engine. The fine was made light in consideration of these facts.

AN interesting entertainment is to begiven at The Victoria on Tuesday evening next, when the children of St. Paul's Presbyterian church will repeat the "Kinderspiel" or cantata of "The Happy Family," for the benefit of the Protestant Orphans' Home. The entertainment was recently presented with great success in Victoria West, and the children of Rev. Mr. MacRae's congregation have now volunteered to repeat the performance for the benefit of the other little ones who have no fathers or mothers.

THE concert given under the auspices of the Royal Templars in James Bay Methodist church last evening was a great success, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. Rev. Solomon Cleaver occupied the chair and delivered a short address, which was followed by a mixed programme ably rendered by the Misses Butler, Baker, Sharpe, Nesbett, and Messrs. Cline, Weeks and Booth. The Royal Templar work is progressing very favorably in the city and deserves the sympathy and encouragement of all.

ONE of the large zinc life-boats of the wrecked collier San Pedro, which for several weeks past has been stored for safe keeping at the new outer wharf, was during Monday night either stolen or sunk by some unknown persons. The probability is that the night prowlers watched their opportunity, and when the night watchman had passed on his beat, lowered the boat to the water and made good their escape. The watchman, however, is inclined to the belief that the object of the thieves was not to possess themselves of the boat so much as to get him into trouble.

ALL the evidence for the prosecution in the case of Edward Currier, charged with the larceny of a two karat white diamond, identified as his property by Mr. G. C. Sauer, but alleged to have been stolen from a young man named Ramos, was given in the Police court yesterday. This morning the defence will endeavor to prove that Ramos sold the ring to Currier and was paid $30 for it. The circumstances of the case as narrated in the witness box do not differ from the facts as published in the COLONIST yesterday. Magistrate Macrae has intimated his intention of sending the case to the higher court for trial or dismissing it; the trial will not be in the Police court.

MR. FRED. C. SMITH, of Adelaide, horticultural commissioner for the South Australian Government, and correspondent for the Adelaide Register and Garden and Field, the Melbourne Argus, Sydney Morning Herald, and Vigneron, and the Auckland Herald, is at present enjoying himself in Victoria. He is a practical fruit grower and canner, and is devoting his attention almost exclusively to horticultural subjects, with a view to arriving at the respective needs of America and Australia and the development of a profitable reciprocal trade in fruits, fresh and preserved. Since his arrival in America, Mr. Smith has been devoting his attention to the California fruit district, from San Diego to Chico, concerning which he has already sent four letters home, which are to be followed by two more now in preparation.

IN answer to the energetic representations of Colonel Baker, Minister of Mines for British Columbia, the Dominion Government have decided to take immediate action in the direction of continuing the telegraph line to Alberni. The Provincial Government yesterday received a telegram from the Department of Public Works, Ottawa, announcing that the construction from French Creek will be commenced almost immediately and vigorously pushed to completion. The distance to be wired is by this route not much more than twenty miles, and the line constructed will be of very considerable utility, not only for commercial purposes, but for reporting any wrecks which may in future occur on the West Coast of Vancouver Island. The recent discovery of the valuable gold fields at China Creek, only seven hours' ride from Alberni, no doubt had something to do with hurrying the commencement of the line.

THE ladies' committee thankfully acknowledge the following donations in September: Fruit, Mrs. A. C McLellan, J. & A. Clearihue (twice), Mr. Jack, ladies of First Presbyterian church; vegetables, Mrs. Blackwood; clothing and magazines, Mrs. Wise; steel, Mr. Prior; cakes, the True Blue Good Templars.

THE Provincial authorities have been briefly informed of a murder, the outcome of a whiskey row, which was committed on the line of construction of the Nelson and Fort Sheppard railway last Wednesday. Despite the efforts of the officers, the sale of liquor along the line continues, producing the usual results. The names of the murderer and his victim are not contained in the advices received.

SPOKANE REVIEW: John Houston, editor of the Nelson Tribune, is at the Spokane. "The Slocan country," he told a reporter last evening, "is employing more wage-workers now than it ever did. The prospects for Nelson are increasing with the approach of the day when the Silver King will be opened at full blast. The consulting engineer is now on the ground and it is thought work will begin before long."

ALL the sealing vessels in port were flying their colors yesterday, in honor of the wedding of Captain Otto Bucholtz, master of the schooner Casco, which was celebrated last evening at the residence of the bride's father in Victoria West, the bride being Miss Nellie Stratford, daughter of Mr. J. C. Stratford. Rev. W. D. Barber, of St. Saviour's, performed the ceremony. The Captain and his bride will enjoy a tour through the United States.

A HALIFAX dispatch announces that the Eighth (King's) regiment, now stationed there, will be removed to Victoria in the spring, and reside at the barracks recently vacated by C Battery, and that hereafter an Imperial regiment will be permanently stationed at Victoria. Whether there is anything in the report beyond a misunderstanding of the arrangement already announced, by which 100 British regulars are to be maintained here, there is no local information.

"MORRIS' popular Saturday night drawings have come to an end for the present. It seems that the Chief of Police, on the strength of representations made to him, called on Mr. Morris when the World's Fair drawing was announced about ten days ago, to call his attention to the fact that such drawings are against the law. Mr. Morris accordingly cancelled that special drawing, but proceeded with the regular affair on Saturday night, awarding the three innocent pipes as usual. On Monday he had another visit from the Chief, as the result of which he has concluded to discontinue the drawings.

AUSTRALIAN commercial reports to hand by the last mail via San Francisco have the following respecting salmon imports from America: "The month's receipts comprise some 150 cases per Warrimoo, from Vancouver, and 200 cases per Mariposa for this port. The business passing in this line has not been at all brisk, so far as regards purchases for actual present wants, but some further indent business is reported for delivery during this and next month. We have so far no change to report as regards values, which range from 7s. 1½d., on spot, down to 6s. 9d., to arrive, for prime cannings. There is no demand for inferior packings at any figure for the moment."

A NEW YORK dispatch of the 1st. inst. reads: "Dr Senner has returned from Washington City, where he was in conference with Superintendent Stump. They considered the regulations to be carried out on the Canadian border to prevent the entrance of undesirable immigrants. The arrangement is a most satisfactory one. Although not with the Canadian government, said Dr. Senner, the cooperation of the Canadian railroad and steamship companies has been secured, and their agents will act with the United States. The United States will send six inspectors to Canada, and they will look out for the ports of Quebec, Point Levis and Halifax. Two others will guard Vancouver and Victoria. On the border line, where it is impracticable to put immigrant inspectors, customs inspectors will do the work.

THE bright, observant and appreciative little soubrette, Patti Rosa, has been talking to a New York paper of dramatic matters and things in general, and in the course of her chat thus compliments the capital and sister cities of British Columbia: "In my impressions of audiences I have nowhere noted a keener appreciation and more discriminating judgment than are shown by the splendid audiences that are given to good attractions in the Canadian cities of Victoria, Vancouver and Winnipeg—places that are looked upon by the untraveled as 'frontier towns' in all that the term implies. They are beautiful cities, with a surprising amount of wealth, culture and liberality, and with a broad sense of hospitality that even the subject of annexation cannot ruffle. The newspaper anecdotes and gibes directed towards the theatre audiences of the far West are largely the figment of the vigorous imagination of the professional humorist and anecdote manufacturer. The mountain towns of Colorado afford audiences that in appearance, style and conduct would not occasion a remark if transplanted bodily to the auditorium of the Columbia or of the Schiller. The ancient story of the placard, "Please don't shoot the piano player—he's doing the best he can,' is purely apocryphal. The tall, sturdy mine superintendent or ranch superintendent who acts as cicerone for a box party, may likely have a Yale diploma on the walls of his mining or ranch cabin, and if perchance I meet him after the performance he is likely to say: 'When I saw you last, Miss Rosa, it was on the stage of the Globe in Boston.' It was Obenreizer in 'No Thoroughfare,' was it not, who realized how small the world really is? Denver's audiences that gather in Senator Tabor's wondrous playhouse cannot be surpassed, and I hope for the speedy day when the purchasing clause of the Sherman law will be repealed and the free coinage of silver will prevail and restore beautiful Denver and the entire west to its wonted prosperity."

PIONEER RECOLLECTIONS.

The Promoter of British Columbia's Express Service Visits the Scenes of Early Days.

One of the Discoverers of the Cariboo Mines — Incidents of the First Navigation on the Fraser.

One of British Columbia's pioneers, and the inaugurator of the express service in this Province, is paying a short visit to Victoria to renew old acquaintances and note the vast changes that have taken place during the many years he has been absent. This gentleman is Mr. C. C. McCoy, president and manager of the Northwestern Steamship and Transportation company, of Portland, where he resides.

"I well remember," he said, "my arrival from San Francisco in April, 1858, at the spot where the city of Victoria stands today. It was shortly before the rush of gold seekers to this Province, and I was on my way to the far North. However, the finding of gold in the Fraser changed my plans. There was only one little red store then where the city of Victoria is now, besides the Hudson's Bay buildings. Gus Hill, Jim Daniels, the latter still alive and residing at Pendleton, Ore., and myself bought our supplies from Governor Douglas, of the Hudson's Bay Co., and among them some so-called self-raising flour. We crossed the Gulf in canoes and when we reached the mouth of the Fraser we landed and started in to cook. That 'self-raising' flour wouldn't raise worth a cent, and the flapjacks we manufactured out of it stuck like glue to the cottonwood logs we spread them on.

"When we reached Langley, Governor Langley gave us four Indians to help us as far as Fort Hope, which was presided over then by Governor Walker, while at Yale Governor Chawnter was in charge. We located on the well known Hill's bar, April 29 of that year. I well remember the first steamer that ever stemmed the waters of the Fraser. She was the Surprise and made her first trip from Sacramento in May, 1858. She was piloted up the river by a big Indian, whose head the passengers adorned with a tall silk hat and it was a comical sight to see the Indians surprise at the vessel, which they delighted called 'hiyou Boston man's house' when they saw their own figures in the looking glasses in the saloon.

"That same month the first express business ever done in British Columbia was started by myself, the route being from Fort Alexander on the Thompson to Victoria, part by steamer, part small boat and part by land. The Seabird was the second steamer to run on the Fraser and she was followed by the Wright. I sold out my business next year to Kent and Smith; the latter who was well known as Okanagan Smith died only a few days ago in Oregon. They sold out to a man named Ballu and from him the express business went into the hands of the late Hon. Mr. Barnard.

"I was one of the party who struck the Cariboo mines," went on Mr. McCoy, "the others in the party being Geo. Hendryx, J. Steele, Loring, 'Hod' Curry, and a man named Abbott. This was in the fall of '59. I kept a store, too, and I used to sell things wonderfully cheap, especially gum boots. I only asked $75 a pair for them. Nails were 75 cents a pound, and canvas $8 per yard."

Mr. McCoy is full of reminiscences of old times, and as he left the Province in 1861, gradually working his way down through Washington and Oregon, the whole face of this country has undergone a wonderful change since he last saw it.

THE damp weather interfered with the attendance last evening at the school room of the First Presbyterian church, where Mrs. Jarley appeared with her world-renowned wax-works, under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. The wax-works have been kept up to date, and the advent of several well-known characters of this age was welcomed with general applause. Besides the entertainment afforded by Mrs. Jarley's little people, an entertaining concert programme was offered.

NOTWITHSTANDING the unfavorable weather, a large company assembled at the house of B. Moore, Cedar Hill last evening, for the "At Home" given by the ladies of the Presbyterian church. These gatherings have become justly popular. Last evening's social was one of the most pleasant of the season. Music, games and social conversation formed the entertainment. A number of friends from the city attended. The collection in aid of the church building fund was a very liberal one.

MINERS' STRIKES.

The Masters Appoint Delegates to Attend a Conference Called by a Committee of Mayors.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The Coal Miners' association, at a meeting held to-day, reiterated its decision that there could be no settlement of the miners' strikes unless the men agreed to accept a reduction in their wages. An invitation was received from the Mayors of Sheffield, Leeds, Bradford, Nottingham and Derby, asking the masters to send delegates to a conference with the mayors and representatives of the miners, with the object of endeavoring to effect some settlement of the dispute. The association appointed three delegates to attend the conference.

The Alexander and Craven collieries, in the Covetry district of Warwickshire, were the scenes to-day of attacks by striking miners upon the men who had signified their intention to resume work. A mob of the strikers gathered about the pits and when the would-be workers appeared they were surrounded by the mob and threatened with violence if they persisted in their determination to descend into the pits. In many cases the food wallets carried by the men willing to work were seized by the mob and their contents devoured. The would-be workmen were so thoroughly intimidated by the mob that they refused to go to work.

Actor Belasco Dead.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—David Belasco, the actor, better known to the theatre-going public as David James, died here yesterday. He had long been a sufferer from liver complaint.

Large as a Dollar

Were the scrofula sores on my poor little boy, sickening and disgusting. They were especially severe on his legs, back of his ears and on his head. His hair was so matted that combing was sometimes impossible. His legs were so bad that sometimes he could not sit down, and when he tried to walk his legs would crack open and the blood start. Physicians did not effect a cure. I decided to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two weeks the sores commenced to heal up; the scales came off and all over his body new and healthy flesh and skin formed. When he had taken two bottles of Proposal to Hold an Election in the Various States on This Issue.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 3.—Representative S. B. Cooper, of Texas, has presented the following resolution, which was referred to the Ways and Means committee:

"Whereas, there is divided opinion among the Congressmen of the United States, now assembled in legislative session, as to the will of the people on the question of coinage of money by the United States, therefore, be it

Dynamiter Identified.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—John Tyrrell, arrested for complicity in the dynamite outrage, was positively identified this afternoon by a gripman on a cable car, as he had seen him on the night of the explosion. The valise found in the Grand Central Hotel containing explosives, was identified as having been in the possession of three men on his car, one of whom was Tyrrell.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The World's Fair directors to-day announced that on and after October 10 children would be admitted to the grounds for ten cents. Children from orphan asylums and other charitable institutions will be admitted free.

A DOCTOR'S VIEW.

One of the most noted physicians of modern times says:—"When the system is surcharged with bile and the liver needs a powerful stimulus to excite it to duty, then it is that we use powerful cathartics to obtain the necessary relief, often attended, however, with prostrating effects," and he might also add, "often causing by their reaction worse constipation and biliousness than before." Now this is not the case with Eseljay's Liver Lozenges. They do not prostrate or re-act. They act gently yet powerfully. Those troubled with chronic constipation or a bilious habit that has lasted for years must continue their use for some time; but they will do their work and permanently cure those thus afflicted.

LEAF DECORATIONS.

HOW TO MAKE ROOMS ATTRACTIVE, ASSISTED BY NATURE.

How to Dry and Press the Leaves—To Decorate Door Panels—Uses For Real Branches—Process of Varnishing and Ironing.

[Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association.]

The hills and valleys are beginning to glow with the regal splendor of autumnal glory. Up and down the slopes of the country the forests will array themselves in harmonious tints, while here and there the color will be heightened by patches of evergreen and by the more gorgeous coloring of isolated maples scattered through the open meadows and pasture lands.

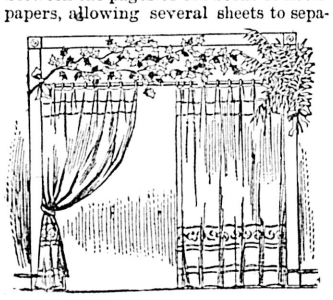

AUTUMN LEAF DESIGN FOR DOOR.

The season is one never to be forgotten by the tourist who can take in the charming aspect of nature, at the same time reveling in the ripened fruitage of midsummer's growth, and be invigorated by the cool, bracing air of early fall. In the cities the autumn excursions to the mountains and wooded country have become a feature of railroad travel, and to return from places where, with prodigal generosity, such bits of brilliant color are scattered at one's very feet bringing no token of all this beautiful display seems so careless of the opportunities afforded that it is a just retribution upon such unappreciative individuals to have their abodes as bare of the exquisite adornment offered as the haunts of nature are after her gifts are all bestowed.

The varied tints of the maple, the rich leather tones of the oak, the crimson, green and gold of the woodbine, with the graceful painted plumes of the sumacs, and a score of other kinds of foliage will supply an endless variety of decorative bits of color, which will retain their charm and beautify the home all through the winter season.

The usual way of collecting these autumn leaves is to gather them as they are scattered far and wide, loosened from their native branches by the wind. In this separate condition the leaves are most easily carried any distance and prepared for use. The simplest way to preserve them is to spread them carefully between the pages of old books or newspapers, allowing several sheets to separate the leaves and prevent molding from the moisture evaporating from the leaves. A few grasses may be collected and pressed to arrange with them or be dried in their natural form.

DECORATION FOR DOUBLE DOORWAY.

A plain, light surfaced wall is made very attractive by a few sprays of bright leaves and wild vines or grasses to give variety and lighten the effect. These can be tied together with a ribbon and tacked up on the wall, or if a larger spray is desired than the short stems will permit of a piece of card can be used for a central foundation, taking care to cover this entirely by the mass of leaves, etc., allowing smaller leaves and grasses to relieve the margin with their more delicate outlines.

If a quicker method of drying and pressing the leaves is desired, a hot flatiron will answer the purpose, and if the iron is rubbed with beeswax before using the color of the leaves will be brighter, while a still greater luster can be imparted by varnishing the leaves with a thin transparent varnish. This can be applied to the freshly gathered leaves, which will curl somewhat when treated in this way, or it can be spread over the already pressed and dry ones, just to brighten the colors.

Perhaps among the pictures hoarded up awaiting framing is some little sketch or lithograph of a quiet country landscape. If so, what is more fitting than a combination of nature and art in mutual decoration? Get a plain mat somewhat larger than the picture and a background of some very light neutral tinted cardboard. Mount the picture upon this background, preferably in a lower corner of the mat opening, and lay around the uneven space a grouping of small bright autumn leaves. Fasten these in place with a little gum or paste at the back, and if you choose paint or draw in the name of the scene upon some appropriate space, and the result will be a tastefully framed picture that in its decorative setting harmonizes with the spirit of the scene.

If there is a room in the house where the woodwork is painted white and an enlivenment of its coldness would be desirable for the winter, let the spotless panels of the doors be relieved by the warmth of variegated maple leaves, and the desire is attained. In order to do this arrange the leaves upon the panels with a little gum upon the back in such a way that they look as if growing upon a branch; then taking a heavy piece of wood colored chenille lay this on in the same way, beginning at the top and laying it over the ends of the stems to form an imitation of a real branch, and it will produce a very pretty effect if carefully handled.

All these are combinations of single leaves, but a few real branches are very nice to put over the doors, and sometimes the boughs are so handsomely draped with foliage that it seems like desecration to strip off the leaves. Take some thick varnish or glue and apply with a brush a coat about the joints where the leaves grow on the branch. After it is well set lay the branch upon a table, and with a hot waxed flatiron press out each individual leaf, or varnish them if preferable. Branches of maple or sumac and mountain ash with the fruit left on will be very handsome when prepared in this way. D. COMINGS.

WOMAN'S WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

The Faults of Woman as Seen Through a Man's Blue Glasses.

A man who has apparently just been left out of his maiden aunt's will sizes up the faults of our sex in heroic style. I would like to have women read his accusations and then ask, each one for herself, how much truth there is in them so far as she herself is personally concerned. This disgruntled male man affirms that women are spiteful to one another. Then he declares they are unwilling to wait till another person has finished speaking before they break in and take up the gab themselves. Moreover, they presume on their sex in their relations with men in a way that is altogether abominable, and this they do even in business matters. The typewriter girl wants to have shorter hours and to have her defects excused because she is a woman. Our critic then charges upon the sex because of "the indifference with which a woman will contemplate the fact that the convenience of others has been sacrificed to her caprice. Very observable in young women." Further, when persons call to see us we keep them waiting an unconscionable length of time before we make our appearance. We do not keep our engagements, and we have no sense of the importance of fulfilling our promises. Then after having knocked us down he proceeds to walk over us as follows: "What I do insist on, however, is this—in public the average woman shows an inconsiderateness, a disregard for the ordinary courtesies of existence (which amounts sometimes to positive insolence) to a degree not anywhere nearly approached by the average man." I may say that this has not been my experience in some nine years of traveling in the elevated railway cars twice a day with the average New York city man. Still, if there is any ground of truth in the masculine writer's accusations, it must be laid to women's unbusinesslike training and their having been kept heretofore secluded from the public in the so called sacredness of home. Thus they take their home manners with them into public places. Men do not dare to, or they would get their heads knocked off.

Great-grandmother Van Nostrand celebrated her one hundred and fifth birthday at Millstone, N. J., a few days ago, amid the general rejoicing of the neighborhood, which takes as much pride in her as if she were the great-grandmother of all the inhabitants. Mrs. Van Nostrand preserves all her senses perfectly except that of hearing, which is slightly impaired. She is healthy, happy and jolly, and she attributes all this and her extreme age besides to the fact that she never wore a corset. She says other women might live to be as old as she is if they would give up this pernicious article of their wardrobe. But most women would rather not live to be 105 than to give up their corsets.

The Waltham watchmaking establishment employs 1,800 women among its 3,000 work people. The superintendent of the Waltham exhibit at the World's fair said of them, "In many lines of the work women are superior to men, and in all lines of the work women are more faithful than the men." Yet if that very superintendent needed a foreman for one of his departments he would select for the place some strip of a boy and put him up over the heads of the oldest and faithfulest women in the works and give him twice the pay of the best salaried among these excellent work women. It is so in every department of industry, such is the power of the sex superstition. This is the most discouraging feature of woman's attempt to rise industrially.

Advocates of the short dress reform do not insist that all women shall shorten the skirt whether they want to or not. They simply ask that women be permitted to do as they please about it. If a lady wishes to wear a short skirt for walking and for the street, they ask only that she be allowed to do it without martyrdom.

Alice Stone Blackwell tells a delicious little story in a late number of The Woman's Journal. It was town meeting day in Barton Landing, Vt. The ladies thereabouts had been tainted with the poison of woman suffrage notions, and a number of them determined to attend the meeting to see how the superior sex conducted itself on dignified public occasions. They accordingly attacked the hall in a body. At the same day and hour the schoolteacher of the place marshaled the pupils, male and female, of the political economy class and took them to the town hall also, that they might see how the sovereigns of this nation hold it level. Arrived at the building, they found their political rulers in a squabble and state of disorder only excelled by the famous scrapping match in the British parliament. Unpleasantness was in the air, plainly. To see how in the twinkling of an eye the members of the superior sex snatched their feet off the desks, threw away their cigars, straightened themselves up, hushed their angry words and began cooing as gently as a dove on the arrival of the visitors was an object lesson both to those who did and did not believe in woman taking part in municipal government. ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

WOMAN'S WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

Ladies, What Do You Think of the Silver Question?

A gentleman was telling me about the meeting of the silver men in New York city at the great hall of the Cooper Union building. He was full of admiration even of the speakers whom he did not agree with. They were giants, he said, full of their subject, magnetic orators, flashing out gems of wit, fact and logic. Every phase of the topic was enlarged on, and it was an education in economics from that side just to hear the speeches. My own enthusiasm was stirred at the story. "Were any women there?" I asked. "Very few," was the answer. It occurred to me then that in all the months since the silver coinage discussion has been at its fever height I have only once heard the subject mentioned by a woman or women. And yet they seem to talk busily enough and with an air of intense interest whenever two or three of them are together. What do they talk of? I overhear fragments of their conversation sometimes. Two of the so called intelligent middle class ladies talked rapidly and earnestly together, and one said: "She's a perfect gadabout, and she lets her house go till it looks like fury, like fury! She runs into my flat and bothers me at my work and bores me to death." At that moment the object of the conversation appears on the scene. The lady who had been telling the tale suddenly assumes the sweetest possible face and begins to reproach the "gadabout" for not coming to see her. Two others were conversing on the steps. This fragment floats upon their ocean of gabble: "She's been putting up peaches and called me in to see them, and they looked perfectly awful. She'd mashed them all up getting them into the jars, and she didn't know any better than to cook them too much, and they all got brown and squshy looking, but of course I had to tell her they were canned lovely." O woman, gentle, intelligent, kindly natured, sweet and sincere! Do you know that a belief is growing that we are what we think, and that every deceitful, spiteful, unworthy thought brings upon our own heads its consequences in the shape of ill health or misfortune? Did you ever try for one month to live up to the rule not to say about another woman one word that you would not be willing to say to her?

Autumn is here, and the club meeting season is at hand. For your club discussions in the coming year select one after another the great questions of general public and human interest. Some women's clubs have done this already, and great is their reward. When the members of these clubs give addresses, their words are not merely the thrashing of musty old straw or the mild moral and sentimental platitudes which pass for original thought with so many women. No! The members of the up-to-the-times club come en rapport with modern life—living, throbbing, electric life. In women's clubs the subject of use is too little considered, and that of the merely curious and entertaining gets far too much attention. In public questions there are this moment silver, the tariff, sanitation, education, the lessening of vice and crime, municipal government, home rule in Ireland, the annexation of Hawaii, village and city improvement, woman suffrage, woman's work and wages and dozens of other vital matters that come trooping before the mind. Some of these questions must be solved by women themselves, or they will never be solved. Women, my sisters, wake up! Put off the mean, the ignorant and the trivial and steep your souls henceforth in great thoughts.

Train yourself to be sincere as the daylight. Never even think an unworthy or unkind thought of another.

Nebraska has 19 county school superintendents who are women.

A Chinaman says, "It is better to be an American dog than a Chinese woman."

There is in England a woman trainer of race horses, Mrs. Challoner. The men of her family were jockeys and trainers before her, and she took up the business and carries it on successfully.

Sallie Joy White knows a woman who controlled all the advertising of the New York and New England railroad. She transacted the entire business of this department and made a good thing of it, and everybody liked her, of course. Everybody always does like a thorough business woman, because she is always polite, neat, prompt, shrewd and good tempered—above all, good tempered. See?

Geuda Springs, Kan., owes its prosperity and good looks to its lady inhabitants. It is a mineral spring town, and the main business of the place was the keeping of boarding houses and hotels, and these were run by women. Having learned to run boarding houses and paying the larger part of the taxes at Geuda Springs, the women resolved to run the town. One of their number, Mrs. Barnes, was elected mayor. Next a woman city council entered on the scene, and the era of village improvement began. Sidewalks were laid, trees were planted; village loafers and rowdies, on the other hand, were uprooted and cleared out. Now the little town is very pretty and begins already to take on city airs.

A good way for women to influence human affairs is to begin with taking an interest in city government and finding out all there is to be known about administering it along the line of honesty, morality and order.

Women have often been very successful as canvassers for advertisements.

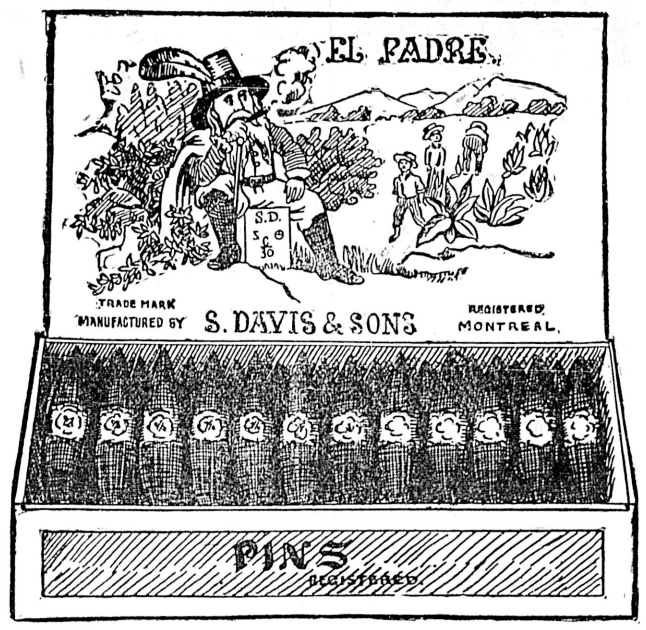

Kansas City has a regularly established woman preacher, Rev. Eugenia St. John, pastor of the Gordon Place Methodist Protestant church.

Dr. Mary Putnam Jacobi is president of the neurological section of the New York Academy of Medicine.

In Berlin all the small parks are taken care of by women.

Kaiser Wilhelm Overworked—His Attitude Towards Bismarck—Government's Strength in Reichstag.

Health of the Late Chancellor—Relations Between France and Germany—World's Fair.

(Copyright, 1893, by the United Press.)

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—Emperor William's deer stalking expedition in Sweden has been his only genuine holiday for many weeks. From his arrival at Gottenburg on Tuesday until he boarded the Hohenzollern again at Karlskrona on Saturday, no official dispatches were received or sent by him. Even this respite from State cares afforded him a more complete rest than he has taken before. Even in his recreation the Emperor does what most men would not do—work. As an incident, he went by rail from Gothenburg to Herrijunga, where he left the train at 1 o'clock on Friday morning. At 6 o'clock he went off with King Oscar and Prince Charles of Sweden to hunt deer. After dinner at the King's lodge, he left Herrijunga on his return trip Much uneasy speculation was caused by the police order closing the harbor from the ferry to the sea until after the Emperor passed through going to his East Prussian lodge at Reminton, where he joined the Empress yesterday. The precaution was unprecedented and combined with the known presence in Dantzig of an unusual number of private police from Berlin made the impression that the authorities were acting under the influence of the anarchistic panic. The emperor on leaving had only the customary attendants around him, and no special guards preceded him. His sojourn at Rominton will be short. He will attend the consecration of the new chapel, pass a quiet day with the empress and to-morrow will be back to resume his usual duties. The consensus of opinion among the officials around him is that he over-exerts his body and brain and will not long bear up under the strain. He does not sleep sufficiently at night, begins work in the early morning and proceeds with feverish unrest throughout the day Dr. Lucanus, chief of his private cabinet, finds it a trying task to keep up with the activity of his imperial master, who openly chaffs him if business be not pushed ahead rapidly enough.

Prince Bismarck's return to Freidrichsruhe from Kissingen has been deferred until next week, as he still lacks the endurance necessary for such a long journey. The Hamburger Nachrichtern, his newspaper organ, expresses the hope that in consideration of his extreme weakness he be spared all public demonstrations during his journey home. The sooner Bismarck leaves Kissengen, says the Nachrichten, the greater must be the efforts of his family and friends to guard against everything likely to excite him. The newspaper discussion of the Emperor's relations to Bismarck does not abate, although the public have been disillusioned as to the probability of their becoming friends. Official opinion never shared the popular illusion. Reports are still rife as to exchanges of messages between the Emperor, Bismarck and the Empress Frederick as to mediation through Count William Bismarck, and as to the Emperor's planning a visit to Frederickstruhe. The truth is there is no present plan of reconciliation, and neither the Emperor nor Bismarck ever intended a reconciliation to be achieved except by the other's complete submission. With the growing strength of the Prince the Bismarckian newspapers are increasing the offensiveness of their criticisms of the government. Bismarck, says the Hamburger Nachrichten, cannot be silent before the suppression of certain policies prejudicial to the empire Accordingly the Nachrichten proceeds to advise all parties to watch Miquel's new financial projects closely and jealously. These projects, however, are still too incomplete to be attacked intelligently.

In connection with the Government's decision to request an extraordinary credit for the navy they excite much opposition. The Bismarckian dailies hardly conceal their hope that the Government in the Reichstag will go to pieces on the estimates. The National Zeitung in an unprejudiced leader, argues that the Government asking for a large increase for the navy commits a dangerous blunder. It is impossible, says the writer, for Germany to support a fleet of the first rank besides an immense army. The Reichstag, which passed the army bill by a small majority, he adds, will undoubtedly reject the bill proposing a new burden for the navy. The demands of the government wants for the navy are based partly on reports of the recent manœuvres in the Baltic. This demonstrated that ships of a new type are required. The torpedo fleet was found to be very effective, but to need re-enforcing. Moreover, large vessels must be partly superseded by cruisers capable of ramming the strongest ironclads. In the last maneuvers the ships Deutschland and Koenig Wilhelm were of no service in heavy weather, because they could not use their guns in rough seas. Chancellor Von Caprivi may utilize these incidents well enough to persuade the Reichstag Richterists to think with him in the matter.

The irritation here over the insults to the military attaches of the triple alliance who have been assisting at the French manœuvres, is taken as a symptom that the French authorities are no longer masters of the situation. By way of retaliation, and to mark the feeling of the members of the dre bund over the affront, for such it is considered, it has been proposed to withdraw all the military attaches from France. Some time ago there was a suspicion here that the military attaches of the French embassy were gathering surreptitiously information about the army which it was not desirable that they should possess. Now the French attaches are openly accused of maintaining a spy system. This turn of affairs has given the military party reason to rejoice. They are making the most of the matter by magnifying every incident. It is much feared that they will carry their point and that there might be a general renewal of hostilities, if care be not taken in Paris. Italy is making some reforms in her system of army mobilization. The War office, after a careful study of several, has decided to adopt the German system.

Privy Councillor Karl Hoffman, one of the German jurors at the World's Fair, told the United Press correspondent yesterday that nobody at Chicago received the German jurors. Neither the state nor town, nor exhibition authorities paid the slightest attention to them. Before they left Berlin, they were requested by Imperial Commissioner Wermuth to bring with them their official full dress or evening dress. The only time they needed such elaborate toilets, however, was when the Imperial Commissioner gave them a dinner to welcome them to the city. Henry Villard was the only other man who showed them hospitality. Upon further inquiry Privy Councillor Hoffman learned that the reception committee had spent all its money upon the Duke of Veragua, and had nothing with which to entertain the European jurors.

SAILORS' UNION.

The Pacific Coast Steamship Company Aim a Direct Blow at That Organization.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—What is considered a death blow to the Sailors' Union was given this morning by Goodall, Perkins & Co. It has been the custom heretofore to allow time and a half for every hour of overtime. During the busy season this has considerably swelled the wages of the sailors. This morning the firm announced that it would in the future refuse to allow any such claims. This means a saving to the Pacific Coast Steamship company of about $40,000 per annum. Should the union insist on the payment the places of the union sailors will be filled immediately by non-union seamen. The sailing of the steamship City of Puebla for the Sound this morning was attended by a large crowd in anticipation of trouble. None occurred, however.

TERRIBLE VISITATION.

New Orleans Struck by a Terrific Storm—Many Persons Killed.

The Orange Crop Totally Ruined—Telegraphic Communication Completely Cut Off.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 3.—A terrific storm struck New Orleans late last night, coming from the northeast, and raged all night and part of to-day, sweeping to the south from here along the line of the Mississippi river, through the parish of Plaquermine to the gulf. The storm was one of the worst which ever visited this part of the country and so far as can be learned 24 or more persons were killed and possibly three times as many wounded, some of them fatally. The wind had reached a velocity of 48 miles an hour at 8 o'clock last night, when the anemometer was destroyed, and it constantly increased in force until 2 a.m., when its speed was estimated at 60 miles an hour.

The crash of sheds and buildings blown down, trees torn up and houses unroofed caused much alarm, and most of the population of the city remained up all night, expecting their houses to be blown down. Among the buildings destroyed were the Sarapare street market, which crushed several buildings in its fall; the Burdette street mission church, the cotton yards of the Northeastern railroad; Coleman's boiler shop, Pythian hall, besides which numbers of other buildings were unroofed.

The revetment levee on Lake Pontchartrain, which protects New Orleans from the overflow of the river, was washed away, the water sweeping over it 15 feet deep or more. Many of the yachts there were sunk or injured. The track of the Louisville & Nashville was badly smashed for 15 miles, and it will be several days before it can be repaired. Three deaths and one person severely wounded, perhaps fatally, is the report received in New Orleans.

Below the city it was far worse, especially in Plaquermine. Here the wind reached a velocity of 100 to 125 miles an hour, sweeping everything before it. At Point a la Hache not a single house escaped injury. The court house and Roman Catholic church, the principal buildings in the town, with 20 other buildings, were destroyed, and the situation became so threatening that the greater part of the people camped out in the streets all night in the heavy rain. The air was filled with debris and the wind blowing so fiercely that many of them had to anchor themselves against trees to prevent being blown away. Six or seven persons are known to be killed in Point a la Hache. It is possible the mortality will be greatly increased when news is received from the gulf coast below Point a la Hache.

The orange crop was totally ruined, with a loss of $350,000 or more. Telegraphic communication was cut off with nearly all surrounding places. This morning skiffs rescued 40 persons about Lake Pontchartrain who were in more or less danger. The storm came from the north and northwest, going in a southwesterly direction. The sugar districts escaped the worst of the hurricane. There is much damage to rice and sugar cane.

ANARCHIST PALLAS.

Long Before This He Will Have Been Shot Like a Dog.

BARCELONA, Oct. 3.—It is stated that the superior council of war has ratified the sentence pronounced by the court martial that tried Pallas, the anarchist who recently sought to kill Martinez de Campos by throwing bombs at him. To make the death of Pallas as disgraceful as possible the court martial decreed that he should be shot this (Tuesday) morning early standing with his back to the firing party.

The Anarchists of this province have distributed through the streets of this city and others of the province a large number of circulars calling on the people to revenge themselves on the upper and middle classes if the death sentence passed on Pallas is carried into effect. They declare that dynamite, petroleum, the torch, the dagger and poison should be used. An unexploded bomb was found under the palace walls, and ten others were found near or in the most prominent business buildings of Villa Neuva. They had been lighted, but failed to explode because of defective fuses. The police are well aware that he has a number of sympathizers among a certain class of the population, and this causes them to make the most thorough search for proofs of further outrages contemplated. On investigation the police found positive proof that Pallas had accomplices among foreign anarchists. An Italian named Mancini was arrested to-day, charged with being an accomplice.

LARDEAU

NORTHEAST ARM UPPER ARROW LAKE.

The Townsite Company have entered into a contract to build a wharf to deep water at lowest stage, at the foot of Victoria avenue. This will cost about $4000.

The C.P.R. Telegraph Company are building their through line from Revelstoke to Nelson, Nakusp and Kaslo via LARDEAU CITY, where the office for the Lardeau and Fish Creek Districts will be situated. It is expected that this line will be opened in a few weeks.

A Mining Recorder is stationed at LARDEAU—a convenience for the prospectors of this region. Many rich strikes have recently been made on Fish Creek, a few miles from LARDEAU. A steamer calls three times a week at LARDEAU.

The charter for the Lardeau & Kootenay Railroad has its commencement at LARDEAU CITY. This line will undoubtedly be built in the near future, as it is the only route to the famous Lardeau Mines on Trout Lake and the shortest and easiest pass to Kootenay Lake.

Prospectors and capitalists visiting the Lardeau Country will find the best Hotel Accommodation in West Kootenay at LARDEAU CITY. It is the entrance point to the Lardeau, Fish Creek and Duncan River Mines, and will save time, labor and money to prospectors who desire to visit these sections.

LARDEAU CITY has much in its favor. It is affected by the prevailing dullness at present, but its situation is such that it must become an important trading point, and grow into a considerable town.

Investors in West Kootenay should seek particulars about LARDEAU and the District tributary to it. Any information will be furnished upon application to the undersigned.

THE POLICYHOLDER'S LETTER.

NEW YORK, March 7, 1893.

HENRY C. LIMA, ESQ.,
General Agent.

DEAR SIR:—I have no objection to your quoting the following facts if they will be of any service to you.

In 1873, I took out Tontine Endowment Policy No. 78,620, with the Equitable Life Assurance Society, of the United States, for $5,000, and have paid in all $4,768 in premiums to the company.

On the maturity of the Endowment the company paid me $7,985 20 in cash.

As an evidence of my satisfaction with this return (which is certainly liberal, considering the fact that it is in addition to the protection furnished by the policy for 20 years) I have taken new assurance with the company for $10,000.

Yours Very Truly,
W. A. ROSS.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

A Citizens' Committee Appointed to Arrange the Presentation to "Our Boys."

The "Petrel" to Represent Victoria at the Seattle Regatta—Football Team Chosen.

A public meeting of citizens was held last night in the Board of Trade rooms to make arrangements for a fitting reception and presentation to the lacrosse team now on their way home from the East. Mayor Beaven by request took the chair, and made a short address, in which he spoke of the successes of the team and the credit which they had won for the city of Victoria. He thought that it was quite the proper thing that the citizens should join to do honor to "the boys." The Mayor's sentiments met with the approval of the meeting, which was expressed by general applause, and H. D. Helmcken having consented to act as secretary pro tem the business was proceeded with.

W. G. McKenzie, of the executive of the lacrosse club, said that the matter having been talked over, they had come to the conclusion that a locket would be a suitable souvenir to present to each member of the team, and they would like to see included two members of the champion twelve who had helped to win the Provincial honors, but were prevented from going East. These ideas also met with general approval, and it was agreed that there should be eighteen lockets—if the souvenir takes that form.

There are fourteen players in the East, and two at home, besides the field captain and Mrs. Macnaughton, who accompanied her husband on the trip, and has earned the gratitude of every member of the team for the manner in which she assisted in nursing the boys who were invalided at Vancouver. As the lady members of the club are to assist in the reception, it was thought to be particularly appropriate that a lady should share in the presentation.

When the general plan had been outlined in discussion, a committee of five was appointed to confer with the executive of the Lacrosse club to arrange the details, and to call for designs and prices for a suitable souvenir. This committee consists of H. D. Helmcken, D. H. Ross, D. R. Ker, W. Christie, and T. J. Burnes. It will meet the lacrosse executive at Robt. Irving's office on Broad street at four o'clock this afternoon.

The list of subscribers to the presentation fund, published in the COLONIST on Saturday morning, has now grown until the total is $173 50, thanks to the exertions of W. Christie, and there is another list in the hands of D. R. Ker, which also represents a considerable amount.

FAST FLYING.

WALTHAM, Mass., Oct. 3.—Zimmerman, Johnston and Tyler lowered three records this afternoon at the Waltham Cycle park meet before a large crowd of people. Tyler lowered the world's record for one-third of a mile by 2 1 5 seconds, by making the distance against time in 38 1 5 seconds. The quarter mile was made in 28 2 5 seconds. Johnston lowered the two-third of a mile record against time with a flying start to 1 minute 24 2 5 seconds. It has hitherto been held by Githens, of Chicago, at 2 50. He was paced by James Clark and Ed. A. McDurfee on a tandem, they going in 1.25 4 5. Zimmerman, paced by Taylor and Titus on a tandem, lowered the track record of 2.15 4 5 for one mile, made by Windle an hour before, to 2 07 with a flying start against time. Quarter in 31 seconds, half in 1.02 3 5, three quarters in 1 36 3 5.

A two mile solid tire race for a $20 trophy has been arranged between Albert Deeming and Milne, Deeming to concede 50 yards start to Milne, the race to take place at Brockton Paint, Oct. 14. Milne finishing a close second in the championship race at Westminster has superinduced the race.

ENGLISH ANARCHISTS.

The Manchester Police Raid Their Headquarters—Result, a Lively Scrap.

MANCHESTER, Oct. 2.—A very lively and interesting fight between a number of English anarchists and police took place here yesterday. The police have long been aware that the anarchists had formed a group in this city and had been holding meetings at irregular intervals for a long time. The anarchists kept within the bounds of law and order in so far that they claimed to be simply honest workingmen meeting to discuss politics from their own standpoint. The discovery of the anarchist plot in Vienna and the attempt to kill Gen. Martinez Campos seemed to have aroused them to a pitch of unusual excitement, for they commenced making things very disagreeable for residents of the neighborhood of the meeting place. This gave the police the desired opportunity, and a raid upon the assembly rooms of the "Reds" was made. The raid was resisted fiercely by the anarchists. They seized chairs and other pieces of furniture and defended themselves desperately. The police drew their batons and a rough-and-tumble fight took place. During the battle three anarchists were so severely injured that they were taken to a hospital, and a number on both sides received less serious wounds. Several of the most desperate anarchists were taken into custody, and others managed to escape through the windows.

A Statesman Dead on the Sidewalk.

BUDA-PESTH, Oct. 2.—A sensation was caused here yesterday by the strange death of the Vice-President of the Lower House of the Hungarian diet, Count Andrassy A. Bokros. Count Bokros was found dead on the pavement below his residence. A second-story window was open, and the police are of the opinion that while looking out of the window he fell and was killed.

Irish Parliamentary Funds.

DUBLIN, Oct. 2.—John Dillon, M.P., addressed a large meeting yesterday at Gillymote. He said the subject of the Paris funds had been thrust before the public within the last ten days. He had always opposed public discussion of the subject because it interfered with the collection of funds for the Irish cause in America and Australia. If differences of opinion existed, as they must exist, they ought never to go beyond the room where the party sat. Persons making public such differences of opinion as existed on this subject were unfaithful to the ideal of Irish unity and were striking blows at the heart of Ireland.

Moreover, two Alpine regiments will be taken from their quarters on the Austrian frontier to reinforce troops in the Cottian Alps. The re-armament of the infantry with the new small calibre repeater will be completed before the end of this month.

The Sultan and the Armenians.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Dispatches from Constantinople say that the Sultan has been greatly moved by the agitation in England on behalf of the Armenian prisoners in Asiatic Turkey, and he has ordered that all papers bearing on the recent trial of Armenians in Angora be laid before him, and especially those concerning the charges against Professors Thoumayon and Kayayan, of the Armenian college in Marsovan. Abstracts of these documents were made a week ago and were dispatched on September 26 to Rusten Pasha, Turkish ambassador in London. A courteous autograph letter from the Sultan was sent with them.

LUMBER SITUATION.

Rock Bottom Believed to Have Been Reached Business In Hands of Fewer Firms.

SEATTLE, Oct. 3.—A. H. Anderson, who has large lumbering and logging interests at Shelton and other points on the Sound, and who is most conservative in his views, begins to look hopefully into the future. Expressing his views on the lumber question yesterday, he said:

"The lumber interests are sympathetic with the general depression, but we have now got down to the very bottom. It could not be worse without stopping altogether, and this, of course, is out of the question. As a result, if there is any change whatever, and there must be, it must of necessity be for the better. I see that two or three cargoes are en route for Australia, and this would indicate that they are using some lumber there. It is a fact that the stock of lumber is very low in Australia, in Chili, in San Francisco and California, and all of these places will soon need lumber for building purposes. With the repeal of the revenue law relative to lumber and the 40-cent rate to the East over the Great Northern line, I look for a rapid picking up of business. North Yakima, where large irrigating ditches are being put in, will soon need lumber for building, and lumber will be needed in the development of the numerous mines in this state, and all this will greatly help the market. During the hard times, only the richest concerns have been able to keep up in both lumbering and logging, and when the markets open up the business will be confined to fewer firms and consequently will be more remunerative."

Why He Took His Life.

BUDA-PESTH, Oct. 3.—Alexius Bokros, vice-president of the Hungarian lower house, who was found on the pavement with his skull fractured, took his life on account of business troubles. In his practice as a lawyer, Bokros had embezzled funds entrusted to him by his client, Countess Montbach, and had spent all his available money in unfortunate speculations on the Bourse. When the Countess discovered his dishonesty, she began proceedings against him.

AUCTIONEERS,

—Are instructed to sell by—

AUCTION

In their Real Estate Salerooms, Cor. Broad St. and Trounce Ave., the following VALUABLE Real Estate, viz.:

Several Town Lots & Blocks

IN LOT 176 ALBERNI DISTRICT,

Which will be sold in one lot.

Also one-fifth interest in 15 acres of land and one-fourth interest in 20 acres of land at Port Angeles,

Being known as a portion of the S.W. quarter of the S.W. quarter of Section 11, Township 30, north of Range 7, west, of the Willamette Meridian; also Terce-and-a-half acres, Shawnigan Lake, with water frontage.

THE WHOLE OF THE ABOVE PROPERTY

MUST AND WILL BE SOLD.

Not the slightest reserve will be placed upon it.

The Alberni property is exceedingly well situated. Land close to it is selling easily at high figures. The recent gold finds in this district offer every probability that values will rise immediately, although this has had nothing to do with placing the property on the market. The owner wants the money and intends to sell.

The Port Angeles property is also well situated, is all good land and close to the present city limits.

A very fine shooting and fishing box could be erected at Shawnigan Lake.
